Be The Change!
A Justseeds Coloring Book

Imagine a world free of oppression, and built on social justice and community support instead. What would it look like?

Be the Change! is a coloring book of 35 stunning images by Justseeds Artists' Cooperative, a collective using art and design to envision radical social transformation and pathways towards a more just world. People of all ages will find inspiration here. In a world that is getting faster every day, slow down and celebrate art and resistance. Make the revolution bright, colorful, and irresistible! Together we can be the change we want to see!

Radix Media is a worker-owned print shop and publisher based in Brooklyn, New York whose mission is to publish stories that get to the root of the human experience. We publish stories that reflect our varied experiences to build a platform for voices that often go unheard. As printers and designers, we feel that publishing is about the beautiful moment when thoughts, hopes, and dreams come together. It's about the freedom for people to tell their own stories.

Justseeds Artists' Cooperative is a decentralized network of socially engaged artists, designers, and cultural workers, who utilize the tools of creative expression to uplift movement work. Together they have produced countless graphics and posters in support of grassroots campaigns, on issues ranging from migrant justice, to prison abolition, and climate change. Since 2007, Justseeds has operated as a worker-owned cooperative, which serves as a distribution platform, with members in the U.S., Mexico and Canada.
